NOTE.—The figures of population are based on those obtained by the Census of 1911 (April 1), and as estimated for December 31, 1913. After the declaration of war on Turkey, November 5, 1914, Egypt and the Sudan were annexed to the British Empire. Their areas are estimated at 363,181 square miles and about 985,000 square miles respectively, with populations of 11,300,000 and 3,000,000, but these figures are only approximate. At the middle of 1914 the population of the United Kingdom was estimated at 46,089,249.

THE UNITED KINGDOM.

REVENUE.

The revenue for 1913–14, the last year undisturbed by the War, was £198,242,897; that for 1914–15, which included the produce of fresh taxation necessitated by the War and not in the original Budget for the financial year, was £226,694,080. The expenditure for 1913–14 was £197,492,969; that for 1914–15 was £560,473,533. By far the greater part of the war expenditure in these years was met by the issue of loans. On March 31 1914, the nominal amount of the Funded Debt was £586,717,872 It was £583,200,097 on March 31, 1915, but the unfunded debt on that date amounted to £497,486,258.

COMMERCE.

	1915.	1914.	1913.
Imports (total)	853,756,279	696,635,113	768,734,739
Exports (British)	384,647,336	430,721,357	525,245,289
Re-exports	98,797,123	95,474,166	109,575,037

Imports.—The United Kingdom's imports consist mainly of food and raw materials; in normal years from 20 to 25 per cent. of the total is made up of articles wholly or mainly manufactured. Wheat and other cereals, meat, butter, sugar, fruit, and tea are usually the largest items among foods; and cotton, wool and other textiles, timber, rubber, metallic ores and hides are the principal raw materials landed. In 1913 the imports were thus composed:

Food, drink, and tobacco	290,202,323
Raw materials and articles mainly unmanufactured	281,822,444
Articles wholly or mainly manufactured	193,302,375
Miscellaneous	3,107,597
	£768,734,739

Exports.—The exports (British) of the United Kingdom consist principally of articles wholly or mainly manufactured, of which the biggest items are cotton yarns and fabrics, iron and steel goods, woollens and worsteds, machinery and chemicals, drugs, etc. Of the raw materials shipped the greater part is coal, coke, and manufactured fuel. In 1913 the exports of the four classes were as follows:

Food, drink, and tobacco	32,587,942
Raw materials and articles mainly unmanufactured	69,904,992
Articles wholly or mainly manufactured	411,368,358
Miscellaneous	11,383,997
Total	£525,245,289

There is always a large excess of imports over exports which represents (a) sums due to the United Kingdom for freights earned by shipowners, and (b) interest on British investments abroad.

MERCANTILE MARINE OF THE EMPIRE.

The net tonnage of the sailing and steam vessels on the Register in the United Kingdom and the principal parts of the Empire at the end of 1913 was as follows:

	Net Tons.
United Kingdom	12,119,891
India	107,774
Australia	436,054
New Zealand	159,310
Canada	397,062
Newfoundland	152,715
Straits Settlements	86,416
Hong Kong	62,017
West India Islands	71,282

Including the tonnages of the other parts of the Empire the total for the whole was 14,168,274 tons. Of this total 12,403,231 tons consisted of steamers.

The largest cities in France were, according to the census of 1911, Paris (2,888,000), Marseilles (551,000), and Lyons (524,000).

The principal rivers of France are the Seine, Loire, Saone and Rhone.

The articles most largely imported into France before the War were wool, cereals, coal and coke, cotton, machinery, raw silk, hides, wine, coffee, copper and rubber. The principal exports were silk and cotton textiles, skins and furs, raw wool, automobiles, woollen textiles, wine.

France exports most largely to the United Kingdom, and she imports from it to a fair extent. Arrivals from Germany and the United States formed the next largest proportions of the total value of her imports before the War, and from Belgium and Russia she also received a considerable volume of goods. In the export list Belgium stood second to the United Kingdom before the War, Germany coming third; the United States, Switzerland and Italy were fairly good customers.

Means of Communication.

In 1913 the mercantile marine of France amounted to 2,201,164 tons, of which 1,793,310 tons were steamers.

The length of railway open in 1913 was 31,391 miles.

RUSSIA.

Area and Population.

	Area.	Population.

Central Asia ..	1,366,832	10,957,400	7·5
	8,417,117	174,099,600	20·7

The above figures are estimates for 1913. They do not include an area of about 317,468 square miles consisting of inland lakes.

The largest cities in Russia are Petrograd (2,018,596 inhabitants), known as St. Petersburg until September 1, 1914, and Moscow (1,173,427 inhabitants). Other large towns are Warsaw (756,426), Riga (500,000) and Odessa (449,673).

The revenue of Russia for 1913 was £362,704,500, and her expenditure, £357,601,800. The debt amounted on January 1–14, 1914, to £931,600,000.

Russian money is expressed in roubles; before the War the sterling exchange rate was usually expressed as 9.458r.=£, making the rouble worth about 2s. 1d.

Commerce.

Imports	129,014,000	123,687,000
Exports	150,196,000	160,318,000

Russia is a very large producer of food and raw materials, especially wheat, rye, barley, butter and eggs, and raw flax and timber. Germany is the largest customer for Russian produce, and from Germany more than half Russia's imports came in most years before the War. The United Kingdom's share of business with Russia has been much less than that of Germany, but was much larger than that of any other country.

Means of Communication.

Russia is still poorly supplied with means of communication construction its enormous size. The railway mileage open at the end of 1912 was 48,902 miles. Various new lines were under consideration when the War broke out. There is a considerable internal lake, river and canal traffic. The ocean-going mercantile fleet consisted in 1913 of 1,216 vessels, of 974,178 tons, of which 716 vessels, of 790,075 tons, were steamers.

ITALY.

Area, 110,632 square miles. Population (1911), 35,597,784 or 321·8 per square mile.

Principal cities, with their populations: Rome, 579,285; Naples, 723,208; Milan, 599,200; Turin, 427,733; Palermo, 341,656; Genoa, 272,077; Florence, 232,860.

Italy's largest imports are wheat, coal and coke, cotton, timber, hides, and machinery. She exports chiefly raw and thrown silk (undyed), cotton manufactures, dried fruits, silk manufactures and wine. Before the War her imports came chiefly from Germany, the United Kingdom, the United States, France, Austria-Hungary and Russia. She exports most largely to Germany, the United Kingdom and the United States, but to a much smaller extent than she receives goods from those countries. Exports to Switzerland, from which she takes little, are fairly large. She sends to Austria-Hungary rather less than she buys from the Dual Monarchy, as a rule. There is a considerable trade with Argentina in both directions.

Mercantile Marine.

The merchant vessels on the register amounted in 1913 to 1,521,942 tons, of which 1,274,127 tons were steamers.

The length of railway open in 1913 was 11,165 miles.

BELGIUM.

Area and Population.

Area, 11,373 square miles; population (1910), 7,423,784, or 652 per square mile.

The largest town is Antwerp, with 320,650 inhabitants.

The Belgian Congo has an area estimated at about 900,000 square miles, with a population of about 15,000,000.

Exports (special) ..	143,073,000	158,029,000

The principal imports are wool, wheat, cotton, raw hides, coal and rubber. The biggest exports are iron and steel, flax and flax yarns. Rubber obtained from the Congo is also an article of importance, as are also to a less extent rolling stock and machinery.

Belgium imports, as a rule, most largely from France; Germany coming second in the list of countries of origin, and the United Kingdom third, in 1913. A fair amount comes from Holland, which is also a good customer for Belgian goods. The arrivals from Argentina were fairly large before the War.

The Belgian mercantile marine was 181,637 tons in 1912.

There were about 2,917 miles of railway open in 1912.

SERBIA.

Area, 18,650 square miles. Population, 2,911,701, or 144 per square mile. Capital, Belgrade (90,000 inhabitants).

The revenue in 1913 was £5,230,600, which equalled the expenditure for the year.

The imports were £4,244,000, and the exports £4,676,000 in 1912. The chief articles of importation are cotton yarns and goods, iron and steel, machinery, hides (raw) and leather. The chief exports are wheat, meat and maize. Formerly there was a large export of swine, but this had shrunk to small dimensions some years before the War, owing to the difficulties put in the way of the Serbian merchants by the Austro-Hungarian Government.

Serbia's largest trade was with Austria-Hungary and Germany. Imports from the United Kingdom were on a moderate scale.
